

Employee Justice.

Jessica S. Choi

Jessica S. Choi is devoted to advocating for the fair treatment of employees and protecting civil rights. Jessica has experience in discrimination, harassment, wrongful termination, retaliation, and wage and hour claims.

Jessica received her J.D. from the University of Southern California Gould School of Law in 2016, and her B.A., magna cum laude, in American Studies from Amherst College in 2010. While in law school, Jessica served as a judicial extern in the U.S. District Court for the Honorable Manuel L. Real, and as a law clerk for Supervisory Administrative Judge Diane A. Gross at the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. As a law student, Jessica was involved in the International Refugee Assistance Project and assisted an Afghan translator for the U.S. military receive a U.S. visa following serious threats to him as a consequence of that employment. Jessica is also passionate about increasing access to mental health care and published an article as a Saks Scholar with the Saks Institute for Mental Health Law, Policy, and Ethics in the Southern California Review of Law and Social Justice, Volume 25.3 (2016), entitled “Mental Health Services via Skype: Meeting the Mental Health Needs of Community College Students Through Telemedicine.”

Jessica is a Los Angeles native and enjoys painting, bouldering, playing the guitar, and learning the banjo.
